"Illustrative of the way Sol Jacobs hustles was his action while in port yesterday. A small accident had happened to the backing gear of the engine and the schooner put into this harbor to have a new casting made. The schooner had 130 barrels of salt mackerel and some of the Portland dealers were anxious to buy them. A satisfactory price was made and Capt. Jacobs was about to sell when he heard that fish had been seen off Mount Desert Rock. He at once cast off his lines and in five minutes after receiving the news was on his way to the grounds."
