BIG WHALE AT COHASSET.

Two Fishermen Find It Floating Three Miles off Shore and Tow It in.

A huge sperm whale, 60 feet in length, was brought in and landed at Big Whitehead near Cohasset on Saturday.

The whale was found floating about three miles southeast of Minot's light by Andrew Hanson of Parker avenue and Andrew Peterson of Stockbridge street, two Cohasset fishermen. Ropes were fastened about the whale and it was brought ashore in tow of these two fishermen's motor craft.

A large number of townspeople visited Whiteherd and viewed the curiosity. What will be done with it is not decided, and it will be left on the beach for the present. It is said a large quantity of oil can be taken from the monster.

There were no marks of harpoons on the cetacean, and it was evident it had died. It has been many years since a whale has been seen here before.
