Smelt Fishing.

The smelt fishermen and fisherwomen also, have been busy around the wharves where these toothsome fish abound; the past few weeks. Last week, a young lady summer resident, while fishing at the "Logs" at Rocky Neck, hooked 11 dozen. The young lady used worm bait, while a great many men close to where she was located, using silver shrimp and ordinary shrimp bait, failed to come any where near her record.

As to Sir Robert Bond.

The Boston Herald says, editorially:

"Premier Bond of Newfoundland, the 'bad boy' of the colonial premiers, has been stopped, put under bonds, served with an injunction—whatever you please to call the action of the imperial authorities. It may stop him, but it establishes a precedent in colonial administration which will make British Columbia, Australia and other colonies do a little thinking."

Sept. 30.

THE RECENT GALE AT NEWFOUNDLAND.

All of our readers, no doubt, read in the press dispatches last week of the terrible gale at Newfoundland, when 24 lives were lost and 75 fishing vessels sunk or driven ashore.

We hear so little of this now at Gloucester that we do not perhaps appreciate our good fortune in this direction and we fail to realize what this gale meant to Newfoundland. To have 24 lives removed from the ranks of the fishermen at one blast; to have 75 vessels of the fishing fleet wiped out in a day; think of how the news would be received here, had this befallen our home fleet.

Improved models, larger and more staunch vessels have done much toward lessening Gloucester's yearly loss of life at sea, and because of this, it is several years since a vessel has been lost with all hands from this port. Few vessels, too, are lost at sea now, much fewer than in former years.

And so, while our vessels are prospering and our loss of life has been comparatively small, we should sympathize deeply with Newfoundland in the disaster that struck her fleet and fishermen, so sudden and disastrous a blow.

Sept. 30.

WARSHIP TO THE RESCUE.

St. Johns, Sept. 30.—The British warship Brilliant has been sent to Twillingate, by order of the admiralty officers at Halifax, to assist in relieving the distress caused by the recent heavy gale, which wrought havoc at many points along the Newfoundland coast. GONE TO ST. JOHN'S.

M. Koganemaru Has Been Long Here Studying Fisheries.

Capt. Larkin Gets Letter from Consul General of Japan.

Mr. M. Koganemaru, of Tokio, Japan, who has been in this country for some tin e studying matters pertaining to the fisheries, has completed his labors and has gone to St. John's, N. F., to study fishery conditions three. Later he will go to Bay of Islands and other Newfoundland fishing places and then pursue his fishery investigations in other countries before returning home.

Most of his time in this country has been spent in this city, where he has been extended every courtesy and convenience by our vessel owners and fishing firms for inspecting at his leisure all the various branches of Gloucester's greatest industry.

During his stay in this city Mr. Kognemaru boarded at the Harvard House and there became acquainted with Capt. Albert Larkin of sch. Natalie J. Nelson. Capt. Larkin has been of great assistance to the Japanese gentleman, and it was from him that the latter gleaned a great deal of his knowledge of the practical side of our fisheries, as to the methods of fishing, the grounds fished upon, etc.

Mr. Koganemaru departed while Capt. Larkin was out on his recent trip, but on his return the latter found awaiting him a very pleasant letter from the Consul General of Japan, whose headquarters are at New York, thanking him heartily for his many kindnesses to Mr. Koganemaru and assuring him of the valuable assistance he had been to the young man in mastering his difficult task. In closing the letter said: "I now beg to express my most sincere thanks for the interest you have taken in him and I need hardly say that the authorities in Japan, by whom he is sent here, will highly appreciate the kindness you have shown him."

During his extended stay in this city, Mr. Koganemaru made many friends who bid him bon voyage and wish him success in his research of the fisheries of the world.

AT BAY OF ISLANDS.

Revenue Cutter Gresham Arrived There Safely on Thursday.

The revenue cutter Gresham, Capt. Terry, arrived at Bay of Islands, N. F., last Tuesday after a fine passage from St. John's. The Western Star says:

"Mr. A. B. Alexander, who has been here for two seasons, is on board in an advisory capacity as representative of the fisheries bureau and state department. In past seasons his presence here was very desirable, and he was able to settle off hand a number of questions that came up involving the interests and rights of American fishermen. Mr. Alexander will remain here until the end of the herring fishery, and will study the whole situation, obtaining facts to be used when the fisheries question is submitted to the Hague tribunal for arbitration."

The Bay of Islands, N. F., Western Star says:

"The first of the American herring fishing fleet will be expected to arrive next week. Already the supercargoes of two Gloucester firms have arrived and are engaging men to fish on board their vessels. There will be a large number of gasoline launches and auxiliary vessels among the fleet, and we learn that the Gorton-Pew Fisheries Co. have chartered Mr. Seeley's steamer, the Active, to ply on this bay among their vessels."

MAY HAVE FISHING FLEET.

Steam Trawlers and Sailing Vessels Planned for North Sydney.

A proposition will be presented to the North Sydney, C. B., town council in the course of ten days for the consideration of a bonus. The enterprise is a fishing fleet out of North Sydney. The company will be capitalized at $100,000. The entire amount will be paid up capital.

The concession asked for is a bonus of $20,000. In return the company will guarantee an expenditure of $75,000 in a plant which will consist of a steam trawler and six vessels and the employment of not less than three hundred. In addition a plant will be constructed in North Sydney for the drying and curing of the different kinds of fish.

The company will guarantee to make North Sydney their permanent port. A number of large fish dealers with practically unlimited capital, it is understood are back of the enterprise and the propysition will not be made to the council until the entire capital is forthcoming.

Oct. 1.

Mackerel on the Cape Shore.

The Shelburne, N. S., Gazette says:

"Fall mackerel are now beginning to make their appearance in good numbers on the coast. They were reported Saturday plentiful and schooling in Liverpool Harbor, from which locality one hundred barrels were shipped. The nets at Lunenburg reported fair catches and five hundred were taken in the traps. From Sambro and Pennant came good reports of catches on Thursday and Friday and should fair weather continue the fishermen are bound to make good hauls."
