Jan. 16.

WEEKLY FISH MARKET.

Trade has picked up this week, but no changes in prices are noted. The codfish market is very firm while mackerel are correspondingly weak, bnt as there is practically nothing doing in this branch and no prices are being made. Last sales are quoted.

The feature of the week is the good receipts of salt and frozen herring. It is a little early for the smoked bloater trade as yet but even now the demand is fair and as good as ever it was at this time of the season, and there is every indication that every herring of the rather short supply will be needed to fill the demand.

The frozen herring market is well supplied, vessels now taking out at Philadelphia, New York, Boston and here. Several fares have sold to Boston the price reported as $2.50. New York and Philadelphia are quoting $3.50 and Boston and Gloucester about $3 to the trade.

Two good fares of cured fish have been received from down East and both are needed. All kinds of ground fish still continue in very light receipt.

The receipts at this port for the week ending Jan. 16 are 5223 bbls. salt herring.

150 bbls. pickled herring.
1988 qtls. cured fish.

The Bay of Islands, N. F., Western Star says:

"The herring fishery in the outer Arms of Bay of Islands ended on Saturday, when all the fishermen left for their homes, and all the vessels moved out to good anchorage ready to sail with first favorable wind. Thirteen vessels were anchored at Woods Island on Saturday, all well laden with frozen herring.

"The last couple of weeks helped to bring up the earnings of the fishermen to well within the average of other years. But the loss o f gear and boats has been heavy this season, so that the actural profits of the voyage will not be so large as other years. To Mr. Alexander Hines of Pleasant Cove belongs the honor of having caught the biggest fare of the season.

"It is estimated that quite sixty thousand barrels of herring have been taken from Bay of Islands this season; not less than $75,000 have been distributed among the several hundred fishermen who engaged in the industry. The fleet for salt bulk herring was the smallest for years; otherwise the year would have been the most successful ever known in Bay of Islands. The fleet for frozen herring was large, there being quite 20 vessels from Gloucester alone."
