REMARKABLE HAUL.

Two Hundred Barrels of Mackerel Reported Taken on Cape Shore.

If reports received here yesterday are correct, a most remakarble mackerel catch was made on the Cape Shore on Sunday. The report says that on that day a haul of 200 barrels was made at Dover, N. S., just to the westward of Prospect, N. S.

If this is so, and it come from a reliable source, the catch is a most unusual one, owing to the lateness of the season and is unprecedented in that locality.

Porto Rico Fish Market.

Ramirez & Co. San Juan, Porto Rico, write: "Trade in general is dull for this season of the year, due to a number of cases, among which the recent drought in the southern section of the island, the scant and tardy coffee crop, and also to some extent the present depressed condition in the United States. While there is a comparatively fair demand for fish stuffs, yet transactions are on such a hand-to-mouth basis that improvement is very slow and only evidenced by a better tone of the market rather than by an advance of local prices. We can but maintain our last quotations on the usual 'net ex wharf' basis: Large codfish, $6 and $6.25 per 100 lbs.; medium codfish, $5.50 and $5.75 do. do.; pollock and haddock, $3.75 and $4 do. do.; hake (nominal), $3 do. do.; split herring, $4.50 per bbl.; smoked herring 11 c. per box (lengthwise.")

LATE HERRING NEWS.

British Sch. George R. Alston Here with Salt Fare.

Large Number of Vessels Now on the Way with Cargoes.

The British sch. Palatia arrived at Halifax, N. S., Monday with 1300 barels of salt herring. The craft had her main boom broken and her captain was ill.

The British sch. Colonia arrived at Halifax, N. S., from Bay of Islands, N. F., on Monday, with 1387 barrels of salt herring

The British sch. George R. Alston, under charter to the Gorton-Pew Fisheries Co., arrived here late yesterday afternoon with 1710 barrels of salt herring for that concern, being the second cargo to arrive here this season in foreign bottoms.

Sch. George Parker of this port was at Halifax, N. S., last Monday, having carried away her bobstay. She is bound for Bay of Islands, N. F., and will repair before proceeding.

Letters from Bay of Islands, N. F., indicate that there was frost there last Thursday afternoon and night, but that it did not continue.

New York advices are to the effect that Newfoundland frozen stock is going very slow at $8 per barrel. The weather has been decidedly against these goods so far this week, but a change is looked for today.

Advices from Birchy Cove, Bay of Islands, N. F., yesterday, state that the American schs. Avalon, Georgie Campbell, S P. Willard, Alert, Bohemia and Arkona have sailed from there with full cargoes of salt herring, also that the British schs. Juniata, Lila D. Young, Defender, Margaret Schwartz, Colonia and Yukon have also sailed with full salt herring cargoes for Boston and Gloucester. It is thought however that several of these latter are going to Halifax.

FROM BAY OF ISLANDS.

Capt. Carl C. Young Brings Home the Latest News.

Herring Scarcer Than Ever Before at This Time.

A letter to the Times from one of the skippers at Bay of Islands, N. F., dated Monday, says that several vessels are now on the way for here and Halifax, N. S., with full cargoes of salt herring. Mild weather prevails and there is no indication of frost. For the past few days herring have been scarce, in fact at no time this season has there been a large body of herring in the bay.

Capt. Carl C. Young, who has been at Bay of Islands, N. F., during the past six weeks, superintending the loading of his schs. Dauntless and W. E. Morrissey, arrived home yesterday, coming by rail and boat.

Capt. Young confirms the news published from time to time in the Daily Times regarding the situation there. He says that the fishing has been very "spotty." On some days good hauls would be made, while suddenly the fish would disappear and there would be nothing doing.

In no season, Capt. Young says has he seen herring scarcer at Bay of Islands than they were when he left on Monday, and this is about the time when the season should be in full swing.

Several of the fleet are on the way home with salt herring cargoes, among them schs. Tattler, W. E. Morissey, Dauntless, Alert, Dora A. Lawson, Bohemia, S. P. Willard, Judique, Avalon, Valkyrie and Maxine Elliott. Sch. Orinoco is also coming with a cargo of artificially frozen herring.

The salt herring season was practically over when he left and all the vessels that remained were putting on their scaffolds or had them already on, ready for frost to strike to begin freezing. A few of the vesses at the Bay had part of a fare of salt herring and were waiting to finish up with frozen, among these being schs. Arethussa, Arkona, Saladin, Arcadia and Ralph L. Hall of this port, and William Matheson of Bucksport, Me.

Throughout the whole season there had been no sign of frost excepting a slight touch last Thursday night. But very few herring were put on the scaffolds and only two vessels the British schs. Mary W. S. and Ethel, the latter under charter to Capt. George Turner of this port, secured fish, each of which froze 200 barrels.

A dispatch from Bay of Islands, N. F., received here yesterday, reports still no frost and herring scarce.

HIGH LINE FISHERS.

Sch. Priscilla Leads Red Snapper Fleet at Pensacola.

Sch. Cavaire, Capt Frank Cooney, Is a Close Second.

A letter to the Times from Pensacola, Florida, says that this month practically winds up the red snapper fishery at that port for the season, after a very profitable year. The letter says that the high line of the fleet is sch. Priscilla, Capt. Augustus McIntire, with sch. Caviare, Capt. Frank Cooney, a close second.

Capt. Cooney was compelled to remain ashore a number of trips the past summer, to undergo an operation, but since joining his vessel again, in August, has been making some record breaking trips. On his recent trip he made the largest stock ever made out of Pensacola, on a Campeche bank trip.

Capt. Cooney is a former Gloucester boy and is well remembered here. It is pleasing to note his continued success in the southern fishery.

Dec. 13.

ABOUT OVER NOW.

Shore Pollock Fleet Lands 10,000,000 Pounds This Fall.

The fall pollock season is about over and but few vessels are still following this branch of the fishery. What few are keeping at it are getting small fares and running them to market at Boston. Most of the boats engaged have now hauled up or have fitted for cod netting or shore fishing. Last year the season came to a close at about this same time.

The catch has been a phenomenal one, no less than 100,000,000 pounds of the kind of fish having landed here since the fall season started. This has been exceeded but once in a great many years, so the season has been a most successful one.
