SMELT AT ESSEX.

Several Good Catches Reported by Anglers Yesterday.

The elusive smelt which seem to have left the harbor have been located in Essex river and yesterday several good catches were reported by enthusiastic anglers. Very few of these fish have been caught in the harbor the past three weeks and the little school sseemed to have disappeared. Now that the fish have reached Essex it is probable that they will remain there until spring, when the young fish make for open water.
