TAKING MACKEREL.

Several Vessels Reported Making Hauls Off Eastern Point.

The fleet of the seiners are leaving the harbor and following the schools which seem to be making their way toward half-way rock. The fish are in small schools and are quite wild. Sch. Agnes E. Downs secured 75 barrels and sch. Marguerite Haskins got eight barrels. The latter vessel had her fare sent to port by a gasoline launch. Some of the vessels set near the shore and breakwater, and in consequence some of their seines were torn.

A dory load of porgies from sch. Elsie E. Rowe, was sent in this noon.

The fleet are now standing off and on between Eastern Point and Halfway Rock and will hang on for the sundown spurt.

Sch. Angielena made a set just outside the breakwater about 1.45 and bailed in for about 20 minutes.

This week ends the mackerel fishing at L'Ardoise and all hands seem satiffied. From all reports the mackerel fishing, both in quantity and quality, has been the best in this neighborhood for many years. If prices keep up, some of the men stand to make a good season's work. Scarcely any other fish were taken, as it was impossible to attend to them.

Five American schooners passed Port Mulgrave bound south on Wednesday.
