ANOTHER STEAM TRAWLER HERE.

QUARTETTE IN BOSTON FLEET HAVE BEEN HERE IN THREE DAYS.

The steam trawler Crest came down here yesterday afternoon from Boston to land 60,000 pounds of fresh fish to the splitters. She completes the quartette of this class of crafts in the New England fishing fleet, and it is notable that within three days all four have been at this port and landed their fares to split. This not only shows how dull the fresh fish market is at T wharf at present, but also points out in no uncertain manner, how with two more of this class of fishing craft sailing to the Boston market, which report says are surely coming, the chances of the skippers of the market sailing fishing fleet for striking big markets are made much less than formerly. Two of these crafts were in Monday, another arrived Tuesday and another Wednesday. With two more in the fleet, their dates or arrival can be fixed almost absolutely and one a day, or two on the best fish selling days in the week, can be looked for almost with certainty. With the quantity of fish these crafts bring on their average trips, the "cream" of any high market caused by adverse weather conditions and fish scarcity on the shore is gone to the hard working and hustling men of the shore market fleet and the chances of big strikes are lessened so that the business will be hum drum instead of the glorious "chance" it now is and unusually high prices and big stocks, for the market fishermen at least, will be almost a thing of the past.

Sch. Romance also came down from Boston yesterday afternoon with 85,000 pounds of fresh fish for the splitters and this morning sch. Jorgina, one of the market fleet now shacking to the eastward, has one of her usual good fares, 110,000 pounds of fresh fish.

Portland Fish Notes.

Most of the Portland vessels which have been engaged in swordfishing this season, landing their fares at Boston, are now coming to their home port to refit, two reaching here Wednesday, schs. Edmund F. Black and George H. Lubee, both of them having taken out good fares at Boston. Nearly all the local vessels have done well this season in that branch of the fishing business, and have made good stocks. Quite a number of the vessels will now fit out for halibuting.

Fitting for Seining.

Sch. Blanche F. Irving and Emerald are now fitting for seining. Quite a number of the crafts which have been swordfishing are reported to be changing over to seining or to mackerel netting.

THE NEWFOUNDLAND CODFISHERY.

Smaller Catch Than Last Season But Better Prices Predicted.

At the present time when the prospects of a big catch of bank cod by the Gloucester fleet, such as in 1909, seems very remote, although there is ground for the hope that the comparative short catch of last season may be exceeded, the following resume of the Newfoundland codfishing season to date, together with the prophecy of a total catch somewhat smaller than last season, from the columns of the St. John's, N. F., Chronicle will be of interest here, not only to producers and shippers, but to skippers and fishermen as well.

The article is evidently authoritative, and carefully prepared and is also interesting from the fact that Newfoundland expects increased money returns to offset this anticipated short catch because both Canadian and Gloucester firms are figuring to a considerable extent in the buying market.

The Chronicle says:

"Now that the month of August is with us, a review of the general fishery situation may be safely made and an analysis of the probable outlook be indicated. As things are at present, it would seem as if the catch would be somewhat smaller than last year's, but that the shortage would be offset, to a very large extent at least, by the unusually good price that prevails.

"The winter fishery on the Western Shore was a good one, the banking fleet has done pretty well, and a fair catch has been made by boats on parts of the South Coast. Elsewhere the traps have been short and stretches of the coast have seen comparatively little fish, while on the Southern Shore, the small boats have done pretty well, traps have failed entirely, and have now been taken up, the trap voyage being abandoned.

"The Northern Bays have had more than ordinary success, the catch being unusually large and in some instances the best for many years. In the Straits, however, the fishery has been a blank and the indications from Labrador do not point to an excessive harvest of the deep in that quarter.

"The figures of export quoted for the fiscal year which ended with June last, are not yet available, but according to the Board of Trade, estimates the total would not exceed 1,300,000, a shortage of say 200,000 quintals as compared with the previous year. It looks now as if the total catch for the present season would not much exceed that of last year. This substantially guarantees that the prevailing price at present will be pretty well maintained though it is possible that there may be a slight decline in the figures. Still, however, it is not probable that this will be very serious, since the Canadian and American buyers now on our coasts in quest of green and dry fish will be offering such figures as will serve to maintain a price that will compare very favorably with what rules at present.

"One of the most hopeful features of recent years is the manner in which Canadian buyers have been drawing on our supplies to supplement the shortage in their own catch, thus ensuring all of a market for about 100,000 quintals annually, and enabling us to count with certainty upon a correspondingly profitable trade in this quarter, by reason of the fact that their markets are such that they can be assured of putting their stocks into circulation there season after season. The incoming of American buyers, too, the past year or so, has helped materially in the same direction and promises to do more in this way in the future.

"The likely passage of the Reciprocity agreement between Canada and the United States is certain to increase the avenues for the consumption of fish in the great republic, and even if the Canadians should enlarge their sales to that country, it seems probable that we shall be able to dispose of some of our supply in the places which they will have to leave bare in order to secure a share of the American market. Furthermore, several of the Gloucester firms have been prospecting, so to speak, in our own territory recently with a view to making extensive purchases of green fish for use in the various operations they follow in New England and notably for use in the large trade in boneless and boxed fish which they have developed of recent years.

"On the whole, then, it would appear as if the situation this fall and next winter with regard to our codfishery products would prove fairly encouraging, and that those concerned in the catching and marketing our annual supply of codfish would be able to secure a fairly satisfactory return for their labors in this respect."

Aug. 18.

Large Swordfish.

About the largest swordfish ever seen at Portland was landed Wednesday on Portland pier by Capt. John Kennedy of Cliff Island, who with his son William, a lad of 12 years, tackled the big fish on Tuesday when about 25 miles south of Cape Elizabeth lights. The two were in a 23 foot Hampton boat. After the fish was harpooned he dragged the boat fully three miles before he gave up. The fish weighed about 600 pounds, and it was a pretty difficult job to get it into the boat. Daggett, at Portland pier, bought the fish, which weighed 446 pounds after being dressed, Capt. Kennedy making $44.60 for the day's work of himself and son.

SPLITTERS WILL TAKE FRESH FISH

ONLY ONE FARE AT THIS PORT BESIDES GASOLINERS WITH BLUEBACKS.

Arrivals here since last report have been very few, the only one up to this morning from off-shore being sch. Walter P. Goulart, with 45,000 pounds of fresh fish, which will go to the splitters.

Yesterday afternoon several of the gasoline shore fleet came in with bluebacks, about 300 barrels in all, some of which went for bait fresh, some to salt and the rest to the freezers, the Stanwood freezer taking some.

Several of the porgy boat fleet were in last night for harbor and went out early this morning. They are operating in sight of the mouth of the harbor and are understood to be doing quite well.

FIVE MACKEREL FARES AT BOSTON

Fish Are Still Schooling in Good Body on Middle Bank.

Sch. Clintonia Has Fine Fare of Both Salt and Fresh Fish.

That the mackerel are still schooling on Middle bank and in goodly body is shown by the arrival at T wharf, Boston, this morning of five fares of these much desired fish. Some of the trips are small but the majority are good ones and one of unusually good size.

The fish were taken yesterday, the lucky crafts being:

Sch. Clintonia, 17,000 fresh mackerel, 67 bbls. salt mackerel.

Steamer Joppalte, 6500 fresh mackerel.

Steamer Bessie A., 7500 fresh mackerel.

Sch. Little Fannie, 4500 fresh mackerel.

Sch. Marguerite Haskins, 3500 fresh mackerel.

The fare of sch. Clintonia is a dandy, being good for over $2000. The little steamers Joppalte and Bessie A., belong to the shore blueback fleet, but their skippers evidently made up their minds to have a shy at the mackerel, and their catches back up their judgment in so doing.

Aug. 18.

BOSTON PRICES SHOWED RAISE

ONLY TWO GROUND FISH FARES BUT MARKET CENTERED ON MACKEREL TRIPS.

Even if it is Friday and generally considered a poor market day, the prices at T wharf this morning showed some improvement over those of the past few days. There was only a handful of ground fish in, 34,000 pounds in two trips, being the entire amount, and these were wanted and paid for accordingly.

One small fare of swordfish brought nine cents per pound and the dealer centered their thoughts of five trips of mackerel which awaited them at the opening, there being 39,000 fish in the entire lot, mostly small, but with a fair sprinkling of large and mediums among them.

Sch. Clintonia had the banner trip. Capt. Webber hailing for 17,000 fresh ones and 67 barrels of salted fish, an unusually good catch in the light of August catches of the past few years.

Haddock sold at $1.50 to $2 and large cod was up to $5. Pollock do not improve and sold at $1.25. Small mackerel were 7 cents, while the large brought 30 cents and the mediums 20 cents.

Boston Arrivals.

The fares and prices in detail are: Sch. Leo, 17,000 haddock, 1000 cod. Sch. Boyd and Leeds, 800 haddock, 12,000 cod, 3000 pollock.

Sch. Clintonia, 17,000 fresh mackerel, 67 bbls salt mackerel.

Steamer Bessie A., 7500 fresh mackerel.

Steamer Joppalte, 6500 fresh mackerel.

Sch. Little Fannie, 4500 fresh mackerel.

Sch. Marguerite Haskins, 3500 fresh mackerel, 5 bbls. salt mackerel.

Sch. Lafayette, 24 swordfish.

Haddock, $1.50 to $2.30 per cwt.; large cod, $5; market cod, $2.50 to $2.75; pollock, $1.25; swordfish, 9 cents per lb.; large fresh mackerel, 30 cents; mediums, 20 cents; small, 7 cents each.

The fish brought a good price, for the small fish sold at seven cents each, while the few mediums and large scattered through the fare brought 20 and 30 cents respectively.

Some of the seining fleet are hanging to Middle bank, while others have gone to the Maine coast to look for the big fish reported there.

Some fine looking mackerel were landed at Portland Wednesday, the steamer Pet bringing in 500 large fish, which she caught off Monhegan. The Pet has made a good stock this week, having carried about 40 barrels into Rockland. Her skipper reports seeing a lot of mackerel along the coast on Monday, but the next day they were mixed with bluebacks. The steamer E. N. Brown landed 1000 pounds of mackerel and the steamer Eithier was reported at Boothbay with a small catch. Altogether the outlook for a mackerel catch is good.

Fisherman Dumped Overboard 80 Barrels Taken in Traps.

Word reached Boston yesterday that for the first time in many years mackerel have been taken off the Newfoundland coast. In the codfish traps off Placentia bay, the fishermen found 80 barrels of large, fine fish. They knew there was no market for the fish along the Newfoundland coast and so dumped the precious mackerel overboard to make room for more ground fish.

From Boothbay Harbor, Me., comes a message saying that mackerel have been schooling well off Long Island, near Southwest harbor and off Monhegan. Local fishermen made good hauls.

Sch. Alert and Another Seiner Made Hauls on Maine Coast.

Sch. Alert is in at Southwest Harbor, Me., this morning with 1000 large fresh mackerel, taken off Mount Desert Rock, and her captain reports that a seiner, name unknown, got two jib hauls of large mackerel there yesterday.

Aug. 18.

Pensacola Fishery Notes.

The Fishing Gazette's Pensacola correspondent says that last week has been a very poor one for the smacks, ten of which reached port with a total catch of 88,700 pounds of fish, of which 75,700 pounds was redsnapper and the balance grouper. The Warren Fish Company and E. E. Saunders & Co. each had five smacks, those of the former company having a total of 48,000 pounds of fish, while the latter had 40,700 pounds. The vessels of the Saunders fleet had 9,000 pounds of grouper, while the Warren smacks had only 4,000 pounds. Still the Warren's shortage in groupers was made up by 44,000 pounds of snappers against 31,700 pounds to the Saunders Co.

The arrivals were:

Warren Fish Co.—Smack Osceola, 11,000 lbs. redsnapper, 2,000 lbs. grouper; smack Emma Wixon, 6,000 lbs. redsnapper, 2,000 lbs. grouper; smack Halcyon, 10,000 lbs. redsnapper; smack Clara P. Sawell, 8,000 lbs. redsnapper; smack Galatea, 9,000 lbs. redsnapper. E. E. Saunders & Co.—Smack Favorite, 8,000 lbs. redsnapper, 2,000 lbs. grouper; smack Frances Louise, 6,500 lbs. redsnapper, 2,000 lbs. grouper; smack John M. Keen, 11,000 lbs. redsnapper, 4,000 lbs. grouper; smack Silam, 5,000 lbs. redsnapper, smack Wallace McDonald, 12,000 lbs. redsnapper.

HIGH WIND BOTHERED THE SEINERS.

Little New To Be Said on Mackerel Situation.

There is little news today in the mackerel situation. Yesterday afternoon it blew too hard to do any fishing on Middle bank, but steamers Bethulia and Philomena got hauls before the big squall came, the former having 2700 and the latter 5000 fresh small mackerel at Boston this morning, selling at eight cents per fish.

No further word has been heard from the outlook down east and the Portland and Rockland boats brought no consignment of fresh ones to Boston this morning.

Yesterday afternoon the little sch. Freedom landed 1000 fresh mackerel here, selling to the Gloucester Fresh Fish Company at 6 1-2 cents per fish. This morning sch. Senator brings 60 barrels of salt mackerel and sch. Georgia has 16 barrels of the same kind, both fares being on the market.

Aug. 19.

LOCAL FISH RECEIPTS LIGHT.

CONFINED TO ONE FRESH MACKEREL AND TWO SALT MACKEREL FARES.

The fish week ends here today with very light receipts. Yesterday afternoon the little sch. Freedom brought in 1000 small fresh mackerel, which were bought by the Gloucester Fresh Fish Company at 6 1-2 cents each. This morning sch. Senator, which has been seining on Middle bank, came in with a nice fare, 60 barrels of salt mackerel, and sch. Georgia from the same grounds hauls for 16 barrels of salted fish. Up to 12 o'clock there had been no arrivals with ground fish.

Today's Arrivals and Receipts.

The arrivals and receipts in detail are:

Sch. Senator, seining, 60 bbls. salt mackerel.

Sch. Georgia, seining, 16 bbls. salt mackerel.

Sch. Freedom, seining, 1000 fresh mackerel.

THREE VESSELS AT T WHARF.

TWO HAVE FRESH MACKEREL AND ONE BOAT HAS SOME GROUND FISH.

It does not take long to tell the T wharf fish story this morning, because there are only three crafts in, two of them steamers from Middle bank with 7700 fresh mackerel between them, the fish being about all small, and one little shore boat with 3200 weight of ground fish.

The mackerel sold at eight cents each, while the little boat got $2 for her haddock, $6 for large cod and $2 for hake and pollock.

Commodore Busalacco's fleet of Italian fishermen running into T wharf and Eastern packet pier landed yesterday morning nearly 300 barrels of small herring taken Wednesday night in single nets, and in the Nahant traps. A number of the Italians also brought in big catches of whiting from the traps. The commodore yesterday morning purchased four skilligees from the little swordfishing sloop Mildred J., which captured the fish off the South shoals. The skilligee looks something like a starved swordfish, having a short, sharp-pointed sword and a slim body. The Italians look upon them as tidbits, and relish them more than their stouter brethren, the swordfish.

Boston Arrivals.

The fares and prices in detail are: Sch. Philomena, 5000 fresh mackerel. Sch. Bethulia, 2700 fresh mackerel, 100 bbls. fresh bluebacks. Sch. Dixie, 100 haddock, 500 cod, 100 hake, 2500 pollock. Fresh mackerel, 8 cts. each; haddock, $2 per cwt.; large cod, $6; market cod, $3; hake, $2; pollock, $2.

Portland Fish Notes.

Capt. George Rice of the little steamer Dolphin is certainly a hustler where fish are concerned, his steamer arriving at Portland late Thursday afternoon loaded down, so that her decks were nearly awash. She had on board 25 barrels of mackerel and 115 barrels of bluebacks, which were caught off Monhegan.

Porgies are again found off the Maine coast. The first fare landed in Portland in many years was brought in Thursday. There were only 24 barrels, but the fact that they were porgies was of enough significance in itself. These fish were brought in by the sloop Minerva in command of Capt. Nickerson. He found them in the lower part of the bay.

Porgies have been so rare at this port that nobody seems to know just when the last ones were brought in. Years ago, was about the only reply the older fish dealers could give. There was a time when the porgies were so plentiful that hundreds of barrels could be taken in a few hours. Then they dropped off and the business of extracting porgy oil fell off to almost nothing in these parts.

No Tidings From Sloop Louis and Warren.

Anxiety is felt at Provincetown regarding the safety of the fishing sloop Louis and Warren, which was on Georges swordfishing during the gale of July 28, and has not been reported since. She was commanded by Capt. Antone Sylva, her crew being Nathaniel Burch, Albert Mayo, Antone Francis and Thomas O'Donnell.

Newburyport Fishing Notes.

Capt. Nestor Thurlow brought 26 barrels of bluebacks into port yesterday and Capt. Hunt, 18 barrels.

The fishermen are looking for good fishing when the mackerel arrive in Ipswich bay, the signs indicating that they will be more plentiful this year than ordinarily. A school was noticed yesterday.
