Big Month at Pier

During the month of August there were weighed out at the Boston Fish Pier the total of 26,734,270 pounds of fresh fish, of all species, with a value of $739,520.46. This compares with 23,635,589 pounds, valued at $664,134.46 handled in the same month last year. As showing how the volume of business is growing, a comparison with 1932 is of some interest. In August of that year there were 19,816,310 pounds, valued at $432,280.29.

Portland News.

The sch. Eleanor, with 54,000 pounds of groundfish, the largest individual fare at Portland this summer, unloaded at the Willard Daggett plant Monday. Also in were the sloop Georgia Bowden, with 17,000 pounds; the gill netter Onward III., with 14,000 pounds, and the sloop Laconia, with 6500 pounds.
