

For Release
Oct. 22, 1938

By Major A.H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Climate and human pursuits! Our activities are determined largely by climate and weather, which is strikingly illustrated in the stretch of country from Florida to Maine. In southern Florida winter vegetables are grown; in northern Florida, oranges; in Georgia and South Carolina, cotton; in North Carolina, tobacco; in New Jersey, summer vegetables; in Massachusetts, cranberries. Of course some of the products are determined by nearness to markets. There is also a great variety of pursuits in going from the east coast to the west coast. In the east most crops are harvested in summer and fall; while in the west coast in winter and spring.

-----