

For Release
Dec. 1, 1938

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Winter and the garden! Even in December the home gardener finds work to do if he expects to make the most of his garden. In the North, strawberries and spinach should be mulched lightly; but many may have already done this. It is also a good time to mend and paint all garden accessories and to clean up all rubbish. In the South, all leaves should be raked up and covered with manure to rot; they make the best fertilizer. Hotbeds should be carefully ventilated, and compost procured for new hotbeds.
